ON TOWN AFFAIRS

The Bethel town report, distributed this week, provides us with a good account of the town's affairs during the past year and is generally clear and easily understood. Many accounts are condensed or summarized as has been the practice for several years, which seems best as complete reports would make a needlessly large book. However, such reports meet with some criticism as so much information, as to who gets the money, is lacking.

Show accounts for the greatest overdrags—$2,024.40 in Winter Roads and $1,288.76 in Sidewalk Snow Removal. The Fire Department ran behind $750.72 and State Aid Construction was overdriven $476.79. The latter was explained in the page of road comments. The Tax appropriation fell short by $405.82, which would not have happened if all those having driveways tarred had paid for same. We do not see the names listed. Six accounts have balances amounting to $98.24, which with the Overlay ($3,195.23), Supplemental Tax ($149.98), and Excise Tax ($13,225.01) add up to $17,825.48 and give a balance of $12,616.61 for the Surplus.

The reports of the Superintendent of Schools and the School Survey Committee refer to the recommendations of the 1950 survey committee which advised appropriations for a school building fund, and again urge that this be done.

The warrant for town meeting (55 articles) deserves most serious thought. Articles which seem important include (1) improving water system for East Bethel school, (2 and 13) school building fund, (47) a vault or safe for Town Clerk's records, and (48) study of Town Manager government. The usual articles on roads and schools are of course as vital as ever.

Regardless of varied differences of opinion, our municipal affairs are in good shape. There are minor matters which we do not see the same as do those in charge of the town's management, neither do we agree with some of the other critics. We favor investigation of the Town Manager idea—not that the town is in distress or near it, as some towns have been and found relief in the change—but because any method which may be better should be considered.

Attendance at town meetings and a show of interest in the town's business are of first importance. Those who lament the passing of "old fashioned" meetings have only themselves to blame. Many towns note the same lack of interest. The reason for lessened interest in Bethel is not the budget committee or the Australian ballot, we do not believe. We know that the committee's advice is often ignored. We know that the names of elected officers can easily be written on the ballot. You know that if you can attend next Monday's meeting, and don't, you may be responsible for some of our mistakes.

EASTER SEAL CAMPAIGN

TO START MARCH 5

March 5th will see the launching of the 20th Eastern Seal Campaign, which is to continue to Easter Sunday, April 5th. The planning for the 20th annual appeal has been the most complete in the Pine Tree Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., history and 400 chairmen have agreed to serve in their communities. Because the cost of medical care and other treatment has so drastically increased during the past year, it is necessary for the Pine Tree Society to raise its sights for the 1953 campaign by increasing its quota.

Funds raised by the local Eastern Seal campaign will be used to support the services of the Pine Tree Society for the crippled children and adults of this community. Outstanding services of the Society are the Hyde Memorial Home in Bath and the Pine Tree Camp at Rome.

The local society is an affiliate of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults which has units in all 48 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

HEART FUND NOTICE

The Maine Heart Fund campaign in Bethel and vicinity will be brought to a close this coming week end. Less than half of the $250 quota has so far been realized and this amount has been taken through the schools and a tag day observance.

Coming as it does directly after the March 5th effort, we do not intend to make this any "high pressure" campaign. On the other hand such a worthy cause should have greater support than it has had in past years.

So far no direct individual contributions have been received. The plastic heart coin containers may be found in most stores and offer an opportunity for you to still make your contribution there or you may make out a check to Maine Heart Fund and send to Donald Christie,

He suffered a cerebral concussion and multiple bruises and abrasions.

The Reds' Strategy Here

The change in administration of the United States government was anticipated by the American Communists and their master in Moscow, and a new program of strategy designed to strengthen their hold in our nation is already well under way, Prof Louis P. Budenz, former Red leader, told our Harding College Freedom Forum audience, the faculty and student body. The one-time Communist Daily Worker editor was invited to the campus to alert us to the new Communist strategy made necessary by the tightening of safeguards against the Reds by the Eisenhower administration.

In his address, Professor Budenz made two points of paramount importance to all Americans: (1) That while the new president and new Congress would no doubt tighten safeguards, the Reds were cunning enough to hold their own and even strengthen their apparatus. The Communist conspiracy in America is still on the march, he said. (2) And we can stamp out the menace only when most of our people clearly understand Communism and can recognize the Communist "line" when they hear or see it. By having leaders unable to recognize it, we lost China to the Reds, he said.

Non-Communist Help
The Communist "line" is carried thinnily disguised in such Communist publications as the Daily Worker and Political Affairs. The Reds throughout America pick up the line and try to get important influential non-Communists to unwittingly advocate precisely what they are trying to accomplish. For instance, Professor Budenz said, the N. I. Communist strategy objective for a long time had been the achievement of U.S. recognition of Red China.

He named a nationally-known conservative industrialist who had advocated such recognition. "He was unconsciously expressing the Communist line, the deepest design of the Kremlin," Mr. Budenz said. The achievement of such help from conservative individuals and groups is one of the major strategy goals of the American Communists for 1953, he said.

Concentrate In Education
In 1953 the Communists intend, said Professor Budenz, "to intensify their efforts to maintain their hold in education." For an understanding of how deeply they have penetrated American education, he cited recent testimony of Dr Bella Dodd before the McCarran Committee. Dr. Dodd formerly was a member of the Communist national committee and legislative representative of the New York Teachers' Union. The union, she said, had 11,000 members and was at one time under complete domination of the Communist Party. "Teachers," she said, "have always been a very important part of the Communist apparatus."

Local Budenz said another Communist objective for 1953 is to "start up our legal processes." The Communists recently convicted of teaching and advocating the violent overthrow of our government will appeal the verdict and use every legal device to postpone their imprisonment. By the time they go to jail, he observed, the 11 leaders convicted in the Foley Square trials will be free again. He said the Smith Act, through which the Communists are tried, wasn't adequate to cope with the conspiracy. He urged that the Communist Party be realistically recognized as a conspiracy, and outlawed.

Other Strategy

The Communists in 1953 will try to bring more of their important functionaries into the United States and send more of their well-known American party members abroad. Those coming in will bring fresh infections, and will go underground as their activities in the conspiracy will have violent freedom. Our government has been permitting many American Communists to go abroad and, as Americans leave our country and thus aid the Reds' world strategy.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

Almost everybody has an opinion of Big Business but relatively few people know much about it. To remedy that lack, in 1947 the Brookings Institution undertook an all-inclusive study of the role of Big Business in the United States. That study will soon be published. A summary of its findings was published as a supplement to the February issue of Fortune, written by Dr. A. D. H. Kaplan, who originated and conducted the Brookings project, in collaboration with Professor Alfred E. Kahn of Cornell. It carries a foreword by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., in which he offers the hope that the Brookings study "will serve to inject a more factual spirit into our appraisals of competitive enterprise" and will also "serve to develop a basis for economic public policy consistent with the facts of life in our technological age."

The Brookings study, it should be emphasized, was not projected as either a defense or an attack on Big Business. It is a factual, rather than a theoretical report, and the interpretations and analysis it provides are based on facts. Only very small part of it can be summed up in a brief space. Here are a few important findings which are included in Fortune's summary:

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

Before and during the war Eva St. Charles, 1900 Santa Fe Avenue, Long Beach, California, and her family operated several restaurants. They made a lot of money but she detested the business. She had once been away from it for several years and when she had returned to it she had forgotten how she really felt about it.

By and by she and her husband bought a restaurant. She says she can hardly excuse herself for not knowing better than to go into it, but here she was in the same business she had promised herself she never would go into again.

A few days after they took over the restaurant, she began to question her sanity. A state of depression settled on her which steadily became worse. Instead of looking forward to each new day with cheerful thoughts that might lift her out of this mental state, she let morbid, unhappy thoughts take possession and they would last through the day. The feeling was that she was asleep. She wondered if she ever would be able to overcome it and be happy again.

Then someone gave her a copy of a book on Worry. As she read it, her slant on life gradually changed. She started applying to her life some of the rules contained in the book. Soon she felt like a new person and she declares she is happier now than she has been in a long time.

Here are some of the rules; the application of which she says is transforming her life:

1. When you are inclined to worry, lose yourself in action.
2. Cooperate with the inevitable.
3. Don't permit trifles to irritate you.
4. Think cheerful thoughts; act cheerful.
5. Learn to relax—preferably out of doors.
6. Stop thinking about people you don't like.
7. Count your blessings every day.

Scanning the NE 243

If there were ever any doubts that President Eisenhower would not carry out his promise of economy and efficiency in government, they have now been dispelled. Washington is being shaken to its very foundations these days—like it hasn't been shaken for 20 years.

Beginning with his first State of the Union Message to congress and a series of executive orders immediately afterwards, the President has shown he means business. A number of the points touched upon in his address to congress have seen fast action.

As an example:

1. He said there no longer was any "sense or logic" in the use of the Seventh Fleet to shield Red China. He immediately ordered the fleet to stop its screening. This opens the way for nationalist forces to attack the Communist-held mainland if they so desire. That China doesn't like the idea was apparent the following day when Red leaders began talking for renewal of the hopeless peace talks in Korea.

2. The first order of domestic business should be to balance the budget, after which a reduction in taxation would be in order. This statement was followed by orders freezing, hiring and strict economy in government expenditures.

3. Aid to Europe would be continued with the Allies required to be full partners matching United States contributions according to their capabilities. Immediately afterwards Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, on his visit to Europe, told big Western European powers they have 15 days to show

The Communist attempt to discredit ex-Communists who are testifying against the conspiracy will be stepped up in 1953. In their efforts to smear and vilify ex-Communists like Budenz, Whitaker Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley, the Reds have had the help of many influential non-Communists. Any ex-Communists who testify against the conspiracy, Professor Budenz contends, should be defended by American citizens if for no other reason than that they are helping break up the conspiracy. I agree.

OVERWEIGHT—AND HOW!

Business apparently has not closed the doors to individual private enterprise."

The general conclusion reached by the Brookings study is expressed in these significant words: "In America it has been possible to mix dispersion with centralization so that it has been possible to leave the major job to private competition, under government rule making. Big Business has not merely been kept effectively subject to this competitive control; on the whole it has also made an essential contribution to its scope, vitality, and effectiveness."

* * * * * The * * * * *

* LOW DOWN FROM * * HICKORY GROVE *

I drive today into the law. This is not to be poppin' off on "hampus cappus," to-wit, whereas, "corpus cristi" and hocus-pocus type of legal verbiage that sounds as if the great map using such, really was "there" and knew what he was talking about. The angle I am messin' with is, how can we afford so much law.

The fact that a business becomes very big does not mean that it will automatically keep its leadership. Of the 100 largest corporations in 1949, only 26 retained their rank in 1948. In other words, the rags to riches" story can be and sometimes is reversed for corporations just as for individuals.

The size of a corporation is not an accurate index of its power in the market. For instance, a corporation with $100,000,000 in assets would be small potatoes in automobile manufacture. In the carpet business, on the other hand, it would be a giant—none in this field is anywhere near that big.

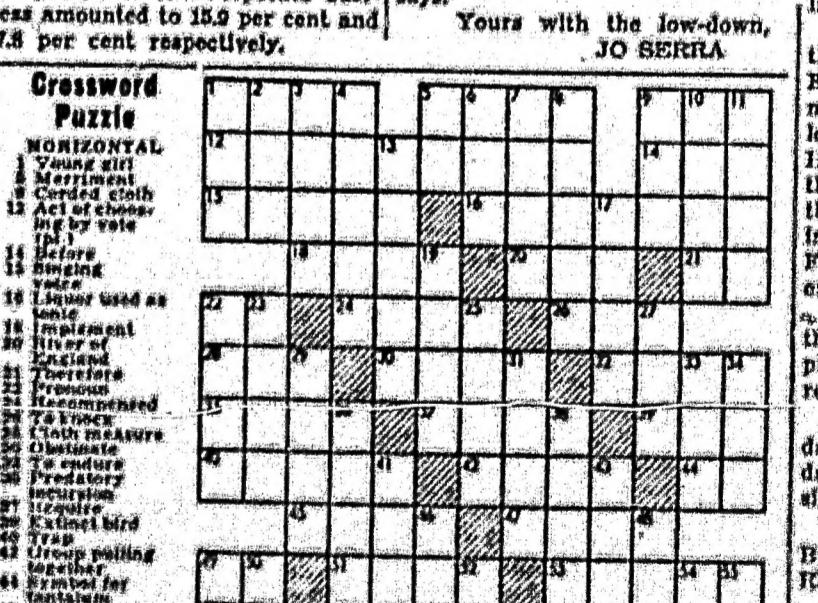

No matter how big, business must please the consumer. The study says, "The companies that have grown between 1949 and 1948 are those that have been able to convert technological progress into customer preferences... There is no reason to believe that those now at the top will still stay there except as they keep fully abreast in the race of innovation, i.e., of competition."

The profits of Big Business have not increased year after year—actually, they have declined relatively since 1929. In 1929 the profits, before taxes, of the 100 largest industrial corporations amounted to 3.7 per cent of the total national income; in 1948 the figure was 2.2 per cent. On the other hand, the profits of the medium-sized corporation amounted to 4.8 per cent of the national income in 1948 and 7 per cent in 1949. And the profits of non-corporate business amounted to 15.9 per cent and 17.8 per cent respectively.

Henry, Easy I says. Make just two laws. One law to repeal 100 books full of present laws, and one law that would slap into jail any political gent who would even propose one new concoction. Sounds simple, says Henry. Quite so, I says.

Yours with the low-down,

JO SERRA

If any member has not received one as yet, please contact the president.

The club members are working on a shadow box quilt which will be used later when finished to raise money for the club.

The cook books which we are having printed will be delayed until the latter part of March due to the company's moving into larger quarters and also a severe flu epidemic which struck their staff.

Guess any of us having this flu can readily understand their handicap. If people who have already ordered this cook book have patience with us and the printing company we will see that you get your books as soon as possible.

We have started an attendance contest with Helena Bartlett and Lillian Young as captains. The object of this contest is to see if we can get more members active. Contest roll call is to be answered next month by a short humorous article either real or taken from a paper or magazine. We urge each member to attend as many meetings as possible. Your points don't add up for your side if you yourself are not present. Remember this is your Community Club help make it so.

Town meeting dinner will be put on by the Community Club as usual this year. With the whole-hearted cooperation of the town people and lower Greenwood we are able to solicit the greater part of our food which will once again enable us to ask the regular prices.

TALENT FOR GOODNESS

Some people have a talent for true goodness—like some have a talent for writing or painting. But they are few and far between.

A man with such a talent in the Bible was Barnabas, one of the leaders of the Christian church. Although he was known for his goodness, his greatest talent was finding goodness in persons that was not on the surface.

The truly good person performs his acts of kindness without a second thought, without really realizing he is performing an exceptional act. Barnabas was such a man.

The person who sets out to perform an act of kindness is not necessarily a good person. He would never look for some act of kindness to perform if he were truly good. He can be classified as the imitation-good persons.

But in every community there are those whose unselfishness, devotion to the Church and community stamp them as truly good.

The man or woman who falls in this class can become a truly good person by continuing the pursuit of doing good until that pursuit is not secondary in their lives, but its guiding theme.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, February 26

Let the peace of God rule in your hearts. (Colossians 3:15.) Read Colossians 3:14-17.

WHILE I was in my teens, I had the call to dedicate my life to the ministry. But I was sure that I could live a life of service and of usefulness and by my own efforts without becoming a minister of the Gospel.

The outcome of such a decision was that gradually I did lose the peace of mind and of heart which God had given me. Some years passed, yet all my good works could not give me soul satisfaction.

After long suffering, one day I fell on my knees and with a broken heart and with tears I called in faith on God, saying: "God, be merciful to me a great sinner. Here am I, take me and let my whole life be a living sacrifice to Thee." Instantly something wonderful happened, I began to rejoice with a heaven sent joy. The peace of God had begun to rule in my heart.

Thirty years have passed since then. By His grace gladly do I yet serve Him, and do praise Him for His wonderful peace which passes all understanding and endures forever.

Prayer

O God, forgive us for our wilful disobedience. Help us to yield ourselves completely into Thy hands. Grant us to live in harmony with Thy divine will. Use us in Thy service to Thy name's honor and glory evermore. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Thought for the Day
Does the peace of God rule in my heart?—Vahram Salibian (Lebanon)

It is getting along toward town meeting so I guess that I will dissertation on this subject a little bit. It seems that the people have been losing interest in town government and I am very sorry to hear this as this has been the trend for the last twenty years and this is not a very healthy situation for if the situation persists we are losing the hold that people have on the government that was given to them and was earned through blood, sweat and tears.

Town meetings are recognized as the basis of democracy and I hate to see this situation coming as I like to hear a meeting where people get up and express themselves since that is the place to air your views if you have any feelings on any subject. Some people are under the erroneous impression that the budget committee runs the town and this is wrong for anyone can have to the budget committee explain any articles and issues that are involved.
